Many people who provide details choose to specify any wishes they may have for their funerals to avoid worry for family and friends in difficult times. You can include your funeral wishes in your will or document them in more detail by drafting your advance funeral wishes. This lists everything you want to be read by, from the choice of burial and cremation to the specific poems you want to read. Most services at the crematorium only take about 20 or 30 minutes, unless the appointment time is long. It is also recommended to give close relatives and friends time to make their own contributions. Your wishes should be signed, witnessed and kept up to date. If possible, they should be kept with your will. It is also recommended to give a copy of the document to your nearest relative or the person in charge of arranging the funeral. If your will is staying with a solicitor for safe storage, there may be a short delay in accessing it at a time when you need to make a decision about the funeral. Download the Pre-Funeral Wishes Form (PDF) if you don't already have 102KB Adobe Acrobat Reader. You can create your own real estate inventory and know your funeral wishes. Adapt a template named My Death Wish List to suit your specific needs. This document gives you the opportunity to list your responsibilities in order to communicate your needs to those most likely to take care of arrangements in the event of your death (e.g., funerals, children, pets, bills, etc.). That is Others handle your thing the way you want to. It could help you remember all the details you want to name your will, so it's a good idea to fill out my death wish list before drawing your will. Please note: This document is not a will. It is full of all the wish List - Posthumous Guide .doc - . Doc-Word template (most popular) click here for my death wish list - Posthumous Guide - . Click here for a PDF template (print and fill it out by hand) to open the Africans version - 'WAT OM TE DOEN AS EK STERF' Important Note: Keep in mind the sensitivity of the information contained in your Death Wish List. This document should be handled with care. The first half of My Death Wish List should be in the hands of some close friends and family while you are alive. It serves no hidden purpose in the safe (usually only if it is too late to act, which is found after the funeral). The second part of the document should be given only to the most trusted relatives/friends and given instructions for storing it in a safe place where no one else can find it. If the information is too important and you don't want to pass on certain parts of this document to anyone while you're alive, make it clear where you can find the rest of the information when that point comes.
